

Global Politics IA - Reflection Prompts Sheet

Turn specific encounters and methodological limits into political learning.

Before, encounter, after

Prompt	Response
What did I initially assume about the issue, actor or concept?
Which exact encounter, observation or piece of evidence challenged or confirmed it?
How did my political interpretation change?
How did the change affect my answer to the inquiry question?

Positionality and perspective

Prompt	Response
How might my identity, access or relationship with participants have shaped what was said?
Which perspectives were easier to access, and which remained absent?
Whose evidence did I initially treat as most credible, and why?
Did legal authority and lived legitimacy point in different directions?

Method and confidence

Limitation	Consequence for the judgment	How I responded

Final reflection paragraph plan

Specificity test

Could another student paste this reflection into a different project unchanged? If yes, add a precise encounter, political concept and consequence for the final judgment.
